

ABSTRACT

The present invention describes a novel gene encoding a novel protein termed headpin (for head and neck serpin) that is homologous to known serine protease inhibitors. The invention describes methods and compositions of the nucleic acids, encoded proteins, antibodies, pharmaceuticals, cancer treatments, diagnostics and screens for modulators of headpin.